

"We are so glad we chose to improve our smiles. It's hard to beat the new all-ceramic materials available today...They look and feel so natural!"

"I chose all-ceramics because of their natural-looking beauty."

Since the early 1970s, all-ceramic crowns, bridges and veneers have given thousands of people the superior cosmetic results they desire. Because all-ceramic restorations contain no metal understructure, they are able to transmit the color of adjacent teeth and tooth structure. This enables them to blend more completely with the surrounding natural teeth.

In addition to their chameleon-like quality of disappearing in the mouth, these restorations have become stronger than ever. With product research and development and state-of-the-art cementation and bonding techniques, modern all-ceramic systems rival traditional restorations for their use in anterior bridgework. Ask your dentist if all-ceramics can be used for your treatment plan to provide you with the most natural-looking smile available today.
